ADA Compliance Services

ADA Programs is responsible for ensuring campus-wide compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), Amendment Act of 2008 (ADAAA), and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. This program directly responds to faculty, staff, and public requests for reasonable accommodations and accessibility concerns. Students requesting reasonable accommodations should contact UWF's Student Accessibility Resources (SAR) office.

ADA Programs works collaboratively with other University entities as well as external community organizations to help meet the University's ADA mission and goals. It provides leadership in promoting inclusiveness, disability awareness, and education in the campus community. ADA Programs monitors our campus for accessibility and ADA compliance, consults and advises members of the University community on disability-related issues, and provides training and awareness opportunities for the campus community.
