Cybersecurity Management, Graduate Certificate

This certificate teaches students to develop policies and procedures that ensure the safety of an organization's information assets without harming the productivity of the organization. Students will perform risk assessment to identify potential threats and design mitigation plans and identify the ethical dilemmas that occur in the context of cybersecurity. Conceptual and technical aspects of cybersecurity management solutions are discussed including the design, development and building of an information security management solution.

Student Learning Outcomes

- Devise information system management policies and procedures to protect corporate information assets.

Assessment of Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the graduate level Information Security Management Certificate, the student will be able to devise information system management policies and procedures to protect corporate information assets.

Job Prospects for Cybersecurity Management Graduates

- Cybersecurity Risk Specialist/Manager
- Information Assurance Analyst/Specialist/ Manager
- Information Security Analyst/Specialist/Manager
- Information Security Auditor/Controller
- Information Security Executive
- Information Security Management Consultant

Find out more about Cybersecurity Management Graduate Certificate at UWF:
https://catalog.uwf.edu/graduate/business/#graduateinformationsecuritymanagementtext