

General Education Learning Outcomes

Approved by the General Education Committee (14 April 2017); Approved by Faculty Senate (13 October 2017)

Communication	Critical Thinking	Integrity / Values
Comp I and some Non-Composition Gordon Rule Writing* Compose and revise a researched academic paper that adheres to discipline-specific conventions. (Rubric Elements: Gather information from credible sources, use appropriate editorial style for an audience, formulate a coherent argument, and maintain academic integrity.)	Mathematics Apply mathematical principles to determine a strategy for solving a problem. Execute appropriate mathematical techniques for solving a problem and interpret results of a solution.	Humanities Identify the intrinsic value of culture and cultural artifacts.
Comp II and some Non-Composition Gordon Rule Writing* Produce (through revision) effective written communications that support author intent and address a specific audience. Notes: Audience includes readers in a specific discipline as well as a specific community. Author intent might be to write about writing. Analyzing information critically is part of the revision process.	Humanities Interpret and analyze tools and techniques of communication within cultural forms or cultural contexts. Explanatory note: Forms refers to media used for communication (art, music, theatre, dance, language, etc.). Contexts refers to time, place, or people involved in the cultural communication.	Social Sciences Reason ethically in an appropriate disciplinary context.
	Social Sciences Solve problems using social science methods.
	Natural Sciences Evaluate scientific information using appropriate tools and strategies of the discipline.

 Non-Composition Gordon Rule Writing courses must select one of the communication SLOs for their contribution to the assessment of writing.

Implementation: Fall, 2018